Interim / Fractional CTO Technology Division (Construction Sector)

Description

Interim / Fractional CTO — Technology Division (Construction Sector)

Location: M4 Corridor (Wales/London) — on-site presence required, remote team support

Day Rate: £800–£1,200 (dependent on experience)

Contract: 3–6 months initial, with potential to extend

The Opportunity

Exec Capital is retained to find an experienced Interim or Fractional CTO to lead the technology function of a growing division within a well-established group serving the construction sector. The division provides web and mobile platforms used by contractors and their clients, with a mobile product currently experiencing rapid growth on the back of regulatory-driven demand (Making Tax Digital).

Following the recent departure of the Head of Engineering, this is a hands-on leadership role: stabilising and directing a team of internal engineers, outsourced full-stack developers, mobile developers and testers through a period of growth and technical transformation.

Responsibilities

The Role

- Provide interim leadership of the technology function, reporting into the divisional/group leadership
- Own and re-architect an ageing web platform requiring significant technical modernisation
- Support and scale a high-growth mobile application through its next stage of development
- Manage a mixed team of internal and outsourced engineering resource across full-stack, mobile and QA
- Bring structure, technical governance and delivery discipline during a leadership transition
- Assess and advise on technology roadmap, architecture decisions and resourcing model
- Work closely with commercial and operational stakeholders to align technology delivery with business growth

Qualifications

Tech Environment

Azure, .NET, Angular, Flutter, Firebase, Supabase
