Interim Interim Sales and Marketing Consultant – Celebrity Entertainment and PR Agency

Description

Location: Hybrid — Remote with 2–3 days/week in Marbella, Spain during busy periods
Start Date: ASAP
Contract: Interim / Short-Term (with potential to extend)

About Us

We are a dynamic celebrity entertainment and PR agency representing top talent, brands, and high-profile events across Europe. After recent challenges with an external partner, we're seeking an experienced and proactive Sales & Marketing Consultant to step in immediately, stabilize operations, and help drive renewed growth.

Role Overview

In this interim role, you'll be responsible for driving client acquisition, strengthening existing relationships, and rebuilding our momentum following the loss of a major client. This is a hands-on, strategic, and operational role suited to someone who can hit the ground running in the celebrity, entertainment, and PR landscape.

You'll work five days per week, with the expectation of beingon-site in Marbella 2–3 days per week during busy periods.

Responsibilities

Key Responsibilities

- Develop and execute targeted sales and marketing strategies to re-engage leads and attract new clients
- Audit and optimise current marketing activities including social media, email campaigns, PR materials, and website messaging
- Support client communication, helping rebuild trust, visibility, and brand confidence
- Work closely with the Founder to define and deliver short-term recovery plans and long-term growth objectives
- Represent the agency in virtual and in-person client meetings, pitches, and strategic discussions
- Monitor market trends within entertainment, celebrity partnerships, and PR to identify new opportunities
